11	12	14	29
12	0	15	30

First finde by this Table her comming o the South that day of her age whereon ou desire to know the houre: and note hat all the increase shee comes to the South after noone, that is, vntill shee be 15. dayes old: and all the decrease, (till 30) in the morning.

Now then repayring to a Sun-dial, note how much it is past or wants of 12. a clocke: and so much it is past or wants of the houre of her South point that day.

For example.

I finde the shadow of the moone at 10. of the clocke, wanting 2. houres of 12. it being the 9. day of her age, and so her comming to the South at 7. houres and 12. minutes; therefore wanting 2. houres of the same: so that it must be 5. of the clocke and 12. minutes past: or if the same day the shadow had beene at 2. in the afternoone, it had beene 2. houres past 7. and 12. minutes, that is, 9. and 12. minutes. The like in the rest.

The Parts of Mans body as they are gouerned by the twelue Signes.

The Signes regiment, expreſſed for memory in 4. verſes.

To Aries head, to Taurus neck, to Gemini armes pertain,
Cancer the breaſt, Leo & heart Virgo the womb doth gain:
On Libra loynes, on Scorpio ſecrets, on Sagitary thighes
On Capric. knées, on Aquary legges, on Pisces fot reines

The Eclipſes which happen this yeare 1624.

THere wil happen this preſent yeare of our Lord Eclipſes,

Not viſible to vs :

Of the Sunne,

One the 9. day of March.

Another the 7. day of April.

Another the 2. day of September.

Of the Moone: one vpon the 23. day of April.

Viſible to vs, one of the Moone the 24. day of March, a little before 5. at night, when the Moone will be darkened 19. digits.

Another the 16. day of September about 8. at night.

The order of the times of Plowing, Sowing, Weeding, and manuring of Grounds (with respect to the different nature of the Soyles) throughout the twelue Moneths, with their due limitation.

Ianuarie.

About the beginning of this Moneth, you may begin to Plowe your Clayes vpward (vnlesse they lye too high) where you meane to sowe your Pease or Beanes, being euer where your barly grew the yeare before: and so let them lie to blaite, till the frost haue seasoned them, which will be sufficiently done by the midst of Februarie, and then cast in your seede and Beanes.

In the beginning also of this moneth begin to fallow your sand grounds: except such whereon before did grow Rye, which you may begin to fallow about the midst of this moneth, as also your graueliy grounds, which and white sands may euery other yeare lye fallow.

About the end of this moneth begin to Plow and sowe vnder furrow such Pease earth as is more light & breaking, continue till the midst of March.

February.

About the midst of this Moneth begin to sowe your Pease and Beanes in your clay grounds as afore said: and spring soile your fallow field, continuing till the midst of March.

March.

March.

From the beginning of this Moneth be sowing your Oates first, and then your Barly vpon your tilth ground: but if it be clay-land ground or black clay, you may stay your sowing of Barly till the middest of this moneth.

In the midst of this Moneth also begin to sowe your Rye: and small Peale and Fitches, vpon those red land grounds, which be too weake for Rye or Barly, (which you shall spare to plow till this time) which sowing, you may hold on till the midst of Aprll. And now also be loading forth your manure to your red sand grounds, that you did fallow that yeare after Christmasse, continuing till the midst of May.

Aprill.

From the midst of this Moneth begin to fallow and manure that part of your Clayes, and white sands, which shall take rest that yeare, continuing till the midst of May.

About the latter end of this Moneth begin to slight and smooth those mixt soiles which you sowed with Barly, and now also begin to soile your sand grounds.

May.

From the middest of this Moneth you may beginne to Plowe and Sowe Barly in your red sand soiles prepared the yeare before for this yeares Barly, and vpon the richest part of your old fallow white sand, marle grounds, with the Michaelmas before, when when you did sowe your Wheat, Rye, and Mastlin you did reserue for this purpose: continue till the midst of June.

Now also slight and smooth your Clay barly appearing aboue ground Begin also now to summer stirre your clay sand grounds.

Iune.

From the beginning of this moneth begin to summer stirre your fallow field clay grounds. And when the weather serues not for Plowing, bee weeding your clay wheat and Rye first, and then your barly, continuing till the midst of July.

About the midst of this moneth, begin to summer your red sand fallow grounds, and to weed your red sand Corne: also to summer stirre your white sand marle ground. Leade forth your manure betweene, to these grounds.

Iuly.

In the beginning of this moneth, set your marle sand grounds. And begin to summer stir your black clayes and red sand grounds.

In the midst of this moneth begin to looke into your medowes, and prepare for your Hay-Haruest: But if the weather be vnseasonable, or the grasse not growne, then be foyling the clayes which you first summer stirred: continue till the midst of September. Now also be foiling your fallow red sands, continuing till the midst of August: then will your barly sowne in such grounds be ready, which being mowed and caried, strait leade forth manure to those lands, from which you reaped your barly, which are most barraine: and then Plowe both them and the rest, hauing done by the midst of September, so suffered to rest till the beginning of October, when you shall begin begin to sowe that field ouer with Rye. Now also be toiling your mixt grounds or clay sands.

August.

From the midst of this Moneth, begin to sowe Wheat, Rye, and Maslin, in your clay and white sands, and to winter-ridge your clay sands.

Towards the end of this moneth, sowe Wheat, Rye, and Maslin vpon clay sands, and Winterridge your blacke clayes and sands.

October.

From the beginning of this Moneth, sowe your red sand grounds with Rye.

About the latter end of this Moneth, begin to Winterridge your white or gray clay grounds for the whole yeare, continuing till the beginning of December.

Nouember.

From the beginning of this Moneth, begin to Winterridge your fallow red and white sands, I meane that which is reserued for barly.

December.

Continue your former Winterridge, till it bee ended.

The Temperature of the foure parts of the yeare.

The Spring.

IT takes his beginning, when the Sunne enters into Aries, about the tenth day of March, and holds till the Sun haue made his entrance into Cancer.

This

This time of the yeare is temperate and encreaseth blood. The sicknesses which are then wont to raigne, proceede from the great impurity of those humours which our bodies haue gathered in the time of Winter.

The Summer:

It takes his beginning from the Sunnes entering into Cancer, which is about the 11. of June, and holdes till the Sunne haue made his entrance into Libra.

It is in temperature hot and dry, and then choller doth encrease and abound: because the serous and colde humor of the body easily passing away through the open pores of the skinne, the extreame hot ayre breathed in, and insinuating it selfe through the secret passages of the body, so encreaseth heate and choller.

The Autumne.

It begins when the Sunne enters into Libra, which is about the 13. of September, and continues vntill the Sunne haue made his entrance into Capricorne.

It is of an vnequall temperature, breeding many diseases by variously affecting the bodies of men, whiles the heat thereof is sometime drawne inward, sometime outward.

The Winter.

It takes his beginning when the Sunne enters into Capricorne, being about the eleuenth of December, and continues till the Sunne haue made his entrance into Aries.

It

It is intemperature colde, and by reason of the colde and moist ayre that our bodies then draw in, long sleepes, and colde feede, it heapes together great plenty of rheumaticke matter.

A ready way to reckon what our expence by the day comes vnto in the whole yeare.

SO many pence as we spend a day, comes in the yeare to so many pounds to many halfe pounds, so many groates, and so many pence, which laide together, is the summe of the yeares expence.

For example: suppose you spend a groat a day, say thus: Foure pence the day, is foure pounds, 4. halfe ponnds, 4. groates, and 4. pence: which put together, makes sixe pounds, one shilling, eight pence. So seauen pence the day, is seauen pounds, seauen halfe pounds, and seauen groats in the yeare, which set together, maketh ten pouads 12. shillings 4. pence. And so in the rest.

How to know by looking vpon the Moone, when it is in the encrease or decrease, and how long it is to or since the change or full.

IF the hornes or darke side of the Moone be towards the East, or on our left hand, then is the Moone encreasing: but if the hornes or darknes of its body be towards the West or on our right hand, then it is decreasing.

The

The Moone encreasing doth not for the most part appeare, till the fourth day after the change, and then it shewes like a horne or sickle, and is euer seene in the euening.

When the body of it is halfe enlightned Westward, it is aboue 7. dayes from the change, and as many to the full, and we commonly call it the first Quarter. If three parts of its body be enlightned towards the West, it is about foure dayes to the full.

When the Moone is in the full, it arises in the East, while the Sunne is setting in the West, so as both may be seene together, and shines all the night thorow aboue the earth, and is all the day vnder the earth.

When we see one part of the body of the Moone darkned towards the West, it is about foure dayes since the full.

When the West halfe of the Moones body is darkned, it is between seauen and eight dayes since the full, and we commonly call it the last quarter.

When three parts of the Moones body be darkned towards the West, it is between three and foure dayes after the change.

Vpon the change it may continue foure dayes vnseene.
